Scientists Who Are to Examine the Fisheries of Behring Sea.

AMERICANS NAMED TO MEET THE BRITISH COMMISSIONERS.

Something of the Records of the Experts on the Joint High-The Preliminary Cruise on the Waters-Affairs of the Executive Departments - Washington
News.

Commissioners to examine the condition of the fisheries in Behring Sea have been named and will report on their way to Alaska. The names, as agreed upon at the cabinet meeting, are Prof. C. C. Mendenhall, Prof. C. Hart Merriam, Prof. Mendenhall is Superintendent of the Coast and Geodetic Survey and is a scientist of the highest attainments. Prof. Merriam is the ornithologist of the Agricultural Department, and while a young man has commended himself strongly to Secretary Rusk for his thorough scientific knowledge. He has not yet been formally appointed for the reason that he has not been found. He set off some weeks ago on a hunting trip.

Death in Colorado and has been beyond the reach of telegraphic communication. Secretary Rusk has been telegraphing to every station near the valley from which Prof. Merriam declined to go, and it is believed that he will be found in a few days. Mr. Goode was at first offered to Prof. J. Brown Goode, the Assistant Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, who has been constantly consulted on the Behring Sea question, but he declined it. If Prof. Merriam declines, we will accept without delay, but should he decline, or is not be found promptly, the President has in view the appointment of a distinguished New York scientist who has given much of his life to the study of the sea and written several papers on seal fisheries.

versy. The Board of Arbitration will probably meet in October. The British members of the board met at Ottawa, whence they proceeded to Vancouver Island, British Columbia, with the intention of spending two months on board a man-of-war cruising in Behring Sea, visiting the Pribiloff Islands and all the principal stations frequented by sealers. At the expiration of their cruise it is expected that they will be sufficiently acquainted with the details of the seal hunting business and with the needs and interests of the sealers to be able to meet the American arbitrators as experts.

THEIR RECORDS.
Sir George Baden-Powell was from 1876 to 1880 secretary to Sir George Brown, Governor of Victoria, British Columbia, and in 1888 was appointed special commissioner to examine and report upon the administration and financial affairs of the West Indian colonies.

In 1885 he assisted Sir Charles Warren in settling the affairs of Bechuanaaland. In December, 1887, he was appointed a royal commissioner to Malta with the duty of arranging for a new constitution for that island, and was knighted upon his appointment. For his report and work in connection with West Indian affairs in 1884, Sir George was appointed a C. M. G. He was

A BANK RESUMES BUSINESS.
NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 9.—The Bank of Commerce of Sheseld, Ala., which has been embarrassed for the past two days, has provided arrangements to meet all its obligations in cash as called for and resumed business this morning as usual. The bank was and is now perfectly solvent, but for lack of currency to meet a rush that was expected to result from the failure of Moses Bros., the bankers of Montgomery, on Monday, it was decided to temporarily suspend until currency could be shipped the bank with which to meet all its demands. This has been done.

MEIER WEAVERS.

One of the Solid Seven in the Combine Trimming Sails.

HE IS ANXIOUS TO HAVE HOLMAN RE-APPOINTED.

The Councilman Makes a Statement of His Position—Other Members of the Combine Indignant Over the Reported Secession—Lake for O'Fallon Park—City Hall News.

The combine in the Council is wavering and unless the solid members take some very positive action to-morrow night the Mayor may succeed in slipping out of the difficulty by conceding only one man instead of two.

There have been vague rumors of a break in the combine from time to time which have always been found only rumors. So far the Noonan forces have not succeeded in finding a flaw in the combine and all their efforts have been fruitless. Meetings have been arranged for between the Mayor and several members of the combine, but none of them materialized any results.

To-day a man in close relation to the Mayor politically said:

"The combine is broken."

"Are you sure of this?" was the question.

"Yes, positive."

"Who is the man?"

"Mr. Meier."

"Why has he deserted the combine?"

"He is tired of the deadlock, and thinks that the public good is at stake, and is willing to let go."

Further than this the informant would not say, except that he had the information the day before.

Mr. Meier was found, and when questioned said:

"It is said, Mr. Meier, that you have decided to vote for Hester for Fire Chief and Brown for Water Commissioner."

"No, that is not true. I will stick to Mr. Holman because I believe that in justice to him and to the work he is doing he should remain until the new water works are completed. There is now under contract nearly $500,000 worth of work which Mr. Holman has started and which might be ruined by a new man. Then if mistakes were made they would be charged to Mr. Holman. Under other conditions another man would serve as well for Water Commissioner, but now the situation is such that in all justice Mr. Holman should stay."

"Will you vote for Hester to-morrow night?"

"No, I will not."

"Are you ready to make any concessions?"

"Yes, I think that in the interests of the city we should get together and try to arrive at some arrangement."

"Then you would give Hester if Holman was sent in?"

"I think I would."

Mr. Meier went on to say that the condition of affairs at the institutions where the appointments were uncertain, was such that something ought to be done, and the only way to do anything was by mutual concessions.

Later to-day Meier receded from this position. He said he had made no promises of any sort to Noonan or Hester or any person except to his fellow Councilman, with whom he had agreed not to vote for Hester or Brown. He appeared to be firm in this position.

SLAUGHTER WANTS BOTH.

John A. Sloan, the Vice President of the Council and the most emphatic combine man in the lot, was next seen at his office. He was told that Mr. Meier showed signs of weakening and that Lindsay might be lost, in the desire to retain Holman. Mr. Sloan said:

"There is nothing to bind any member of the committee, and his sense of honor and I do not see how Mr. Meier can drop out now."

"You make concessions?"

"Yes, I will."

"If the Mayor gives you Lindsay and Holman, will you give him the rest?"

"No, not exactly. If he will give us those two, we will proceed to pass on the other appointments according to their merits."

"You will not go less than the water works?"

"No, we will have both or none. I am ready with some documents here for Lindsay and I do not see how the Mayor can take any other man in the face of them."

Mr. Sloan then produced petitions signed by hundreds of the leading dry goods houses, all the insurance people in the city, all the banks and nearly all the real estate men, asking for Lindsay's appointment.

Mr. Sloan then continued: "I do not see how the Council can fit in the face of such a representative set of petitions as these. If they do, they act contrary to the wishes of the people they represent."

The combine is a little afraid that Mr. Meier will weaken on Hester and vote for him, and as he is assured of Holman's nomination, so a plan is laid, which may be carried out if the combine members are present at the to-morrow's meeting. The plan is to force a vote on Hester before a trade can be made and have his name rejected.

Mr. Sloan then continued: "I do not see how the Council can fit in the face of such a representative set of petitions as these. If they do, they act contrary to the wishes of the people they represent."

Hester rejected, the Mayor still refuses to appoint Lindsay, it will show that all his suit-election promises are empty. Lindsay's friends were the cheapest kind of political duplicity. On Holman the combine is solid as ever, and it is possible the weak members will be braced up to the sticking point again.

HANDS BY A MOB.

An Arkansas Negro Lynched by the Citizens of Beebe.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 9.—At 1:30 this morning, Jim Baker, the negro who outraged Mrs. Folsom, a respectable lady of Beebe, Thursday night, was taken from jail at that place by the infuriated mob and hanged to the railroad crossing.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict to-day of death at the hands of an angry mob.

The assault was committed while Mrs. Folsom and another lady were coming home late last night from a festival. The negro attacked the woman and Mrs. Folsom's companion ran to give the alarm.

The negro succeeded in accomplishing his design before assistance arrived. He escaped in the dark, but the whole town of Beebe was soon in arms, business being suspended, and the brute was caught last night.

A RACE WAR.

Serious Trouble Among White and Black Miners in Iowa.

OKLAHOMA, Mo., July 9.—Considerable excitement exists at Evans, five miles from here, over the advent of colored miners to take the places of white strikers.

Yesterday a constable, who is also a striker, attempted to arrest a colored miner, Charles Johnson, for disorderly conduct. Johnson picked up a car link and proceeded to resist the officer, inflicting serious wounds. He was arrested by others, tried and bound over to the grand jury. Thereupon Johnson's friends took possession of the constable and held the officers until Johnson was freed. Twenty-five or thirty shots were fired, but no one was hurt. Johnson is still at large.

The Police Have a New Theory in the Chila Case.

J. C. TURECHEK WILL BE CALLED ON FOR AN EXPLANATION.

What the Detectives Claim to Have Discovered—Mrs. Chila Drank the Coffee Supposed to Have Made Her Sick at Turechek's—The Inquest Postponed and an Interpreter Engaged.

Facts are coming to light through the investigation of the Chila poisoning case, which promises to end in a murder trial. Three detectives have been at work on the case two days and have secured some startling statements from residents of Bohemia in South St. Louis.

Mrs. Anna Chila was 67 years of age when she died suddenly at 1415 Pickett street, Saturday, June 27, and though the neighbors were surprised the attending physician returned a burial certificate, giving the cause of death as acute diarrhoea. The body was buried in Piacente's cemetery the day after death, and proceeding which at once aroused suspicion.

Mrs. Chila had been married three times. First to John Zachar, then to Charles Curias, and two years ago to John Chila. Her second husband, Curias, left her about $3,000 in a secret Bohemian society, on the day a constable saw an officer and charged the funds. Mrs. Chila, it is said, placed the money left her by her second husband in Turechek's hands for safekeeping.

When she learned that John Chila, an old man past 60, had married her for her fortune, she made no pretense to conceal. Mrs. Chila, though aged and decrepit, went out washing three days in the week and earned enough to keep herself and husband in food and clothing without drawing on her principal. One of the families she washed for was that of Mrs. Turechek, 1822, Eleventh street. On Wednesday, June 24, she went to wash for Mrs. Turechek, and while there was given a cup of coffee by Mrs. Turechek. She went home sick, but returned the next day and did some washing for her. Mrs. Turechek then called on her friend, Mrs. Turechek, attended her all day Saturday and up to the time of her death, Saturday night. Several friends called in to see her before she died, and one woman has since said that just before Mrs. Chila died she cried out, "I have money in the cellar and money with my friend on Eleventh street."

TURECHEK PAID THE FUNERAL EXPENSES. The next day Mrs. Turechek had the body buried in Piacente's cemetery and paid the funeral expenses, about $125, out of her own purse.

Mrs. Turechek then circulated a story in the neighborhood to the effect that while she and friends were dressing the body for burial old man Chila rushed in and tore a money belt from his dead wife's body and took it away. The next day the old man was found digging up the cellar floor looking for the money his wife had hidden there.

On Monday, the day after Mrs. Chila's burial, Frank Zachar, brother of Mrs. Chila's first husband, called at the Coroner's office and told Deputy Meade he knew Mrs. Chila had been poisoned and that her husband did it. The story was told so clearly that Chila's arrest was ordered and the body was exhumed.

The stomach was given to Dr. Laedeking for a chemical examination. Before the report was made an inquest was held and every one who knew Mrs. Chila personally and who had a few days before her death were called as witnesses. They were all Bohemians, and the inquest was the greatest difficulty that Deputy Meade had to make the interpreter ask and answer questions correctly. When all had testified a verdict was rendered that Mrs. Chila had died from natural causes. Chila was released.

Two days later Dr. Laedeking died his report, in which he said he found about three grains of arsenic in the stomach given him, and that it was the poison which killed the woman. The case was reopened and placed in the hands of Chief Harlan to investigate. Detective Free, Coroner and school were placed on the case yesterday morning and have worked on it night and day since then. They requested a continuance of the inquest which was set for this morning, and it was laid over until next Saturday.

HIS BONDSMEN PAID.

PROCEEDS OF A SALE USED SUPPOSEDLY FOR ELECTION EXPENSES.

The Constable Sold Out Amroth's Hardware Store For $1,800 and Failed to Make Any Return—Detective Desmond's Remarkable Identification of a Deserter—Two Disappearances.

Henry Mersman was formerly a constable in the Tenth District but he will soon be a prisoner in the city jail if his bondsman can get his hands on him. This morning August Hauschild of 1904 North Broadway and Edward O. Harding of 1107 Montgomery street called on Prosecuting Attorney Bates with their attorney Henry Meyers and secured a warrant against Mersman, charging him with embezzling $1,800 by office, a new style of warrant provided for under a special act recently passed.

Messrs. Hauschild and Harding were on the case. A constable under the name of Mersman's bond while he was constable up to last November, when he was defeated. During the campaign he sold out Amroth's hardware store on Clinton and Broadway for the benefit of creditors and realized $1,800. Mersman is constable under the law ninety days in which to turn the money over to the creditors. In this case the creditors were the hardware store on Clinton and Broadway and the firm of Witte & Umrah. When Mersman failed to give them their share the creditors called on Hauschild and Harding and these gentlemen were compelled to pay. They have since tried to make Mersman reimburse them, but he has been unable to do so, hence the charge of embezzlement. The bondsman say they think Mersman used the money in defraying campaign expenses, expecting to be re-elected to office.

Robbed the Cash-Box. Bud Parker, alias Dan Nalmer, a colored boy working in Frank Brant's saloon, Sixth and Spruce streets, was left alone yesterday for a few minutes. While Brant was away Parker broke open the cash box and carried off $100 in cash. He was caught by a patrolman and taken to the police station. He is now in the city jail.

Suddenly Disappeared. Mrs. Anna Griffin, a widow, came to this city April 2, from Helena, Ark., with her 14-year-old son, Charles, and located at 2306 North Broadway. Charles found employment in the city and his mother remained at home. The boy was seen last night at 10 o'clock in the morning, but he has since disappeared. His mother is now looking for him.

Took the Watch. Mrs. Belle Stephenson of 404 South Seventh street swore out a warrant this morning against James Atkinson, charging him with grand larceny. Mrs. Stephenson says she left Atkinson in charge of the house July 3, and when she returned he and a gold watch were missing. Atkinson was arrested by Detective Shappe and Danaher late last night and the watch was recovered this morning.

To Work for the State. Deputy Sheriff Skidmore left for Jefferson City, Mo., this morning with three prisoners sentenced to the State Penitentiary. The prisoners are James H. Smith, John H. Smith and John H. Smith.

A Wayward Girl. Berdie Walsh, the adopted daughter of Mrs. James Walsh of 1001 North Broadway, ran away from her home a few days ago, and her mother has requested the police to arrest her. She is 18 years old, blonde, slender, and when she disappeared wore a black hat, calico dress and button shoes.

DEATHS. "M'DONNELL" Aged 61 years, died July 8, 1891. Tragic death of the late Donald M'Donnell, eldest son of the late John M'Donnell, died at his residence, 1001 North Broadway, at 10 o'clock, July 8, 1891. Burial on Friday, July 10, at 2 p. m., from the residence of his son-in-law, B. A. Parker, 2017 Morgan street, to St. Peter's Church and thence to Calvary Cemetery. Friends and acquaintances respectfully invited.
